

Indentured Servants

First of all you are probably wondering what is an indentured servant? Well an indentured servant is a person who signs a contract and work for someone for 5-7 years. Then usually they get paid with a trip to the colonies, land, or food and clothes. During the seventeenth century most of the white labors in Virginia and Maryland came from England as an indentured servant. But soon indentured servants started to get very a little pay or no pay at all! This was the start of slavery. After the revolutionary war slavery has been illegal ever since.

Map Of The 13 Colonies

Banks, J., Boehm, R., Colleary, K.,
Contreras, G., Goodwin, A.,

McFarland, M., & Parker, W.
(2003) Our Nation. New York:

Macmillan/McGraw-Hill.

<http://go-middle.grolier.com/>

http://www.worldbookonline.com/wb/products?

Welcome To Your Future Home!

Made By
Simone Chakravarty!

New England Colonies

- Maine
- Vermont
- New Hampshire
- Massachusetts
- Connecticut
- Rhode Island

New England's weather is average with mild winters from 37 to 45°F (3 to 7 C) and cool summers, and if you're a rain person guess what? It rains all year around! Even though it is a little too cold to grow fruits and vegetables that are supposed to be grown in warm weather. You can grow things such as stone fruit and potatoes. Those are great to grow in a cold climate like New England's.

Some Important Industries In The New England are...

- Fishing
- Lumber
- Shipbuilding

Middle Colonies

- New York
- New Jersey
- Delaware
- Pennsylvania

The growing season in the Middle Colonies was much longer than the others. This happens because during growing season there is much rain and about the same amount of sunlight. So their crops would grow very very well.

Some very important industries in the Middle Colonies are...

- Ship Building
- Lumbering
- Sawmilling
- Papermaking

Southern Colonies

- Maryland
- North Carolina
- South Carolina
- Georgia

The Southern Colonies climate is fairly well. They have mild winters and hot summers! If you like agriculture this is the place for you! Since the Southern Colonies are by the Atlantic Coastal Plain it gives them soil which fertilizes. So as you can tell, their growing seasons are pretty long.

Some Of The Southern Colonies Industries are...

- Agriculture
- Ship Building
- Iron Works

