

Who was more responsible than George Washington? You should keep reading to find out how Washington have responsibilities.

This is how George Washington was responsible. He was responsible for solving many problems when he was president. Washington had also taken responsibility for losing a battle. George Washington has also taken responsibility for ending the Revolutionary war. He was also responsible for helping The United States grow. George Washington was responsible for being the father of our country.

So, in conclusion, this is why George Washington was responsible. Some people said this about him "He was first in war, first in peace, and first in the heart of his countrymen."

By; Lucas