FOUR KINDS OF SENTENCES: DECLARATIVE, IMPERATIVE, INTERROGATIVE, AND EXCLAMATORY.

A declarative sentence makes a statement and ends with a period.

Examples: I go to Voorhees Middle School.

George Washington was the first president.

An imperative sentence gives a command or makes a request. Most imperative sentences end with a period. A strong command ends with an exclamation point.

Examples: Please pass the vegetables. [request]

Sit down. [command]

Stop shouting! [strong command]

An interrogative sentence asks a question and ends with a question mark.

Examples: How old are you?

Did you write in your Writer’s Notebook?

An exclamatory sentence shows excitement or expresses strong feeling and ends with an exclamation point.

Examples: What an easy assignment that was!

I won the tournament!
FOUR KINDS OF SENTENCES: DECLARATIVE, IMPERATIVE, INTERROGATIVE, AND EXCLAMATORY.